THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 22, 1875.

SOME DEMOCRATIC RESOLUTIONS.

Elsewhere in this paper may be found a report of the proceedings of a Democratic precinct meeting in Cole's Valley, Douglas county, from which it appears that in addition to the business ordinarily transacted by such bodies, the Democracy of Cole's Valley precinct transacted a little business of a very different character. We cannot blame the Democracy of Cole's Valley precinct for desiring to put on record their opinion of the Republican party. That is an amiable weakness which some of the rest of us indulge occasionally. Nor are we disposed to criticize very severely the course of the Democracy of Cole's Valley precinct in declaring they regard the administration of Grant as a failure. We can not assent unreservedly to this view of the case, for we have cause to consider the administration of Grant as in some respects the most marked success of the times; but that is a question upon which "Union men may honestly differ," and especially when they happen to be men who differ on nearly all other points in politics. Nor have we any fault to find with the Democracy of Cole's Valley precinct for expressly endorsing the administration of Governor Grover, if they think it entitled to their endorsement; for people sometimes get very singular ideas into their heads, and it may be possible that the Democracy of Cole's Valley precinct have some theory upon which they really believe the present State administration worthy to be endorsed. At all events, they have declared they endorse Grover's administration, and it is more generous to attribute to them merely a defect of intelligence than a want of sincerity. Nor yet shall we quarrel with the Democracy of Cole's valley precinct for demanding the nomination of a man from Southern Oregon for Congress. The question of locality is really of about as much importance, so far as concerns the usefulness of our Congressman to the State, as the question whether he have dark beard or light: but people will not always believe that, and then there is something due to local pride. All in all, this demand of the Democracy of Cole's valley precinct on behalf of Southern Oregon, is well enough; and if they could have a Congressman right from Cole's valley it would be still better.

Thus far, if we can not agree with the Democracy of Cole's valley precinct, we can at least understand that it may be possible for them to suppose the Republicans are a very unreliable set, Grant a failure and Grover a successful Governor, and finally that Southern Oregon is entitled to the distinction of being the home of the Democratic candidate for Congress who is to be beaten this fall. But we entirely fail to perceive the relation which the Democracy of Cole's valley precinct appear to perceive amongst these several propositions. "Whereas, the Republicans are a scurvy gang, and Grant a failure, therefore resolved that we endorse Grover and want a Congressman from Southern Oregon." So read the preamble and resolutions of the Democracy of Cole's valley precinct.

There was, in reality, no necessity for the Democracy of Cole's valley precinct to hook their resolutions on as logical conclusions to propositions which had not the natural connection of premises with them. There was ample opportunity for them to introduce these resolutions with "whereases" having the proper relation to them. As to the matter of endorsing the Governor, for instance, they might have put it in this way: "WHEREAS, There is no room to doubt that Governor Grover is as honest as the average of Democratic politicians, and has as much backbone as an average oyster, and as much sagacity, at least, as is necessary to put the State House and Penitentiary funds 'where they will do the most good' about carrying elections; therefore resolved, that we endorse his administration as eminently Democratic, and will do our best endeavors to enable him to reach the goal of his ambition, a seat in the United States Senate." In this form the preamble would have been strictly truthful and the resolution appropriate. We shall not follow out the subject and suggest a way to get over the other resolution, but leave the one we have suggested for the reflection of our readers in Cole's valley and elsewhere. Don't forget it, when the next State election comes round.

JUDGE FISHER'S CASE.

A person who know nothing of the facts would suppose from reading the Washington dispatches from day to day that there is no lawyer in the District except Judge Fisher who is capable of discharging the duties of District Attorney. First, Fisher, who, it appears, is charged by the Attorney General with neglect of his business, is reported as begging to be retained on promising reform. Then his prayers not being favorably heard by the Attorney General, he makes an appeal to the President to protect him. Again receiving no satisfactory assurance, he turns to his friends on the Supreme bench of the District, and they address the President in his behalf, urgently requesting that he, the President, intercede with the Attorney General, which he does. And in the mean time Fisher himself renews his direct application to the Attorney General; and still Mr. Pierrepont does not yield, but merely promises to consider the matter and have a further interview. What does all this unusual proceeding mean? Why should the President and the Supreme Judges take such a deep interest in Fisher? There are thousands of lawyers all over the United States who could replace him; so there is no occasion, merely on the score of competency, for all this unseemly display of anxiety to protect him. If he has done any service that justifies such remarkable conduct on the part of those who are not expected to descend into the arena, and make a personal struggle in defense of officers charged with want of faithfulness, that service has been such as the public have not been permitted to see. The fact that the Attorney General requested his resignation ought to end the matter. It ought to end the matter with Fisher himself, and it surely ought with the President.

The negligence with which Fisher is charged relates, it is said, especially to the circumstances connected with the prosecution of Hinds, the mail contract swindler and briber. It will be recollected that at the time that trial was going on, it was stated there was no vigor in the prosecution, and that Hinds was reported as saying defiantly that he would make it extremely unpleasant for many of the great people about Washington in case he was convicted. It will also be recollected that he was not convicted but was acquitted, and that after the legal questions in the case had been resolved in favor of the prosecution. He escaped, not upon technicalities of the law, as was at first suggested, but, simply because the prosecution was weak and inefficient. There are many other mail contract swindlers of the same band with Hinds, who have not yet been brought to trial, and who would doubtless be glad to have their cases conducted exactly as Hinds' case was. It would be pleasant to feel sure that fact has nothing to do with the extraordinary efforts to save Fisher; but people will put this and that together. Fisher may be an honest man, and, so far as his purposes are concerned, a faithful officer. If he is, he is doing himself and his friends great injustice by the persistence with which he hangs on to his position, and the President is laying ground for much undesirable speculation by his unusual efforts to retain him.

A PROVISION OVERLOOKED BY THE MAYOR.

The Mayor appears to have overlooked some provisions of the City Charter relative to his duties. The 35th section declares when the regular meeting of the Council shall be held, annually, namely, "on the tenth day next following any general election." Other meetings of the Council are subject to determination by that body, but this particular one, on the tenth day after the election, is made peremptory by the Charter. Then the 4th section, proscribing the duty of the Mayor, says:

"It is his duty annually at the regular meeting appointed by this act, to communicate by message to the Council, a general statement of the condition and affairs of the municipal corporation, and to recommend the adoption of such measures as he may deem expedient and proper."

That annual meeting was held and the Mayor was present; but he made no communication, as required by the Charter. Comment was then withheld, because it was thought he might send the requisite communication at the next meeting, which, though not a compliance with the law, would have served the purpose of giving the information contemplated by the Charter, within a reasonable time. But the next meeting, and still the next, has gone by and the law is overlooked. We say overlooked, for it can hardly be possible that a plainly prescribed duty of this character would be knowingly disregarded by the Mayor.

POLITICAL RESPONSIBILITY.

The twaddle about the responsibility of political parties, which has formed the staple of the Oregon Statesman's editorial matter for the last three months or more, is being revamped and published in the Bulletin. It serves to fill up, but it is too silly to have any influence. There is no responsibility in politics but the responsibility of men,—no security against rascality but the security of personal character. Every scheme having for its object the substituting less direct responsibility for that of individual men, or any less potential and tangible security for that furnished by personal character, is a scheme to enable politicians to control the people in the interest of themselves, and to shield rascally officials to keep their places. Look at the subject in the light of reason or of history, and it always comes to this complexion at last.

We do not wish to meddle with the nominations made by the Mayor for city officers; but we take the liberty of suggesting to both him and the Common Council that they would probably save themselves some trouble by consulting § 9 of the charter. By that section no person is eligible for an office who has not been a resident of the city for the three months next preceding election or appointment. A person, ineligible under this provision, could not take the office, if chosen. His appointment would be void.

The pro-pect is that the farmers will realize well for their wheat this year. The price is steadily advancing. The lowest quotation this morning for new milling at San Francisco is $2/10 per cental, or $1 26 per bushel. The crop is short in the great wheat districts of the world, and the New York Commercial Bulletin expresses the opinion that the market must continue good.

THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 22, 1875.

CITY.

IMPROVED ORDER OF RED MEN—ELECTION OF GREAT CHIEFS.—At the regular annual election for great chiefs of the great council of Oregon, I. O. R. M., held on Wednesday evening, July 21, 1875, the following members were elected to the respective offices, viz.: Great sachem, John Cimborsky, of Or. Pocahontas tribe, No. 1 of Jacksonville; great senior sagamore, Wm. S. Stevens, of Multnomah tribe, No. 3, of Portland; great junior sagamore, Richard H. Cardwell, of Winnemucca tribe, No. 5, of Baker City; great chief of records, L. F. A. Shaw, of Oneonta tribe, No. 4, of Portland; great keeper of wampum, Geo. C. Sears, of Multnomah tribe, No. 3, of Portland; great prophet, Alex. Campbell, of Multnomah tribe, No. 3, of Portland; great representative to great council U. S., Alex. Campbell, of Multnomah tribe, No. 3, of Portland (re-elected).

LIKE ENOUGH.—One of the deck hands employed on the Emma Hayward, met with an accident a few days ago at one of the fisheries. The boat had stopped and the hands were pulling on board a considerable quantity of canned salmon. While trundling down the plank a barrel of salmon, the truck upset. In an instant the barrel was whirling down the hill towards the river. To prevent the barrel from rolling into the water, the man threw himself in front of it and stood directly in front. When the barrel came down violently against the man's shins, it nearly threw him backward into the river, and also bruised both limbs quite severely. The salmon was saved, but it was a wonder that the deck hand escaped having a pair of fractured limbs.

THE NEW TEASER.—The propeller Teaser, which was built last season at the Cascades by Messrs. Moody & French, to convey the mails between the Cascades and The Dalles, subsequently sold to parties on the Sound and brought down to this city, arrived at Seattle on Sunday from Portland. She was one day from Astoria to Cape Flattery, and, with all passengers, five days from this city to Seattle. She went down to Port Townsend Monday night, and upon the Semiahmoo mail route to-day. Her cabin accommodations are to be improved, and sponsons put upon her sides, to render her more thoroughly for that trade. The Britton will command her. She is said to make good time.

IS SAN FRANCISCO—Mr. Isaac Barman, of this city, who left here something over a year ago with his porters' handy box, since started, we believe, returned recently from New York via Panama to San Francisco, where on information says, he proposes to locate in business. Jos. Holder and Ben. Mayer, of this city, landed in Frisco lately, and are doing, Milwaukee-like, for "something to turn up." Quite a number of young men leave here and on every outgoing steamer with a view to locating under more favorable auspices in San Francisco, but they find it a difficult matter to obtain situations, and, in many instances, are only too glad to get back to the old Webfoot.

THE "BONANZA."—This light draught boat, which was constructed the present season on the basin, Oregon City, by the O. S. S. Co., is rapidly approximating completion. Peter Jacquet is the contractor and builder, and is crowding the work vigorously forward. Mr. J. D. Biles informs us that at the present rate at which the work is moving forward, the Bonanza will be ready to make the trip within the next ten days. Most of the machinery—the engines and boiler, used in the steamer Albany are to be employed in propelling the Bonanza—is already in position, and will soon be ready to render service.

WAGON CAPSIZED.—A few days ago, while a gentleman was driving through the upper end of the city with a wagon, the vehicle capsized and the occupants, the driver and an old lady, were precipitated to the ground. The driver was attempting to pass along on the side of a steep hill, when the accident occurred. The locality is a rather steep and the vehicle went over. Strange to relate the team did not run away, the occupants were not injured in the least, and nothing about the wagon was broken. Lucky affair, that.

SHIPPING COMING.—The evening coteporary reports Capt. C. Ferd. Cardiny, from the city of Puna, Italy, who has been doing Washington county, and other parts of the State during the past week or two, informs us that 350 families will come to Oregon this year, and will form a colony on land engaged for them in the county named. We also learn from other sources that the same number of Germans, Scandinavians and Scotchmen will come to Oregon between now and fall.

ARGUED AND SUBMITTED.—The case of W. Doland vs. O. M. Barnard was argued and submitted in the supreme court on Tuesday, and yet there has been no decision in the case. This is a case in which the validity of the law allowing a deduction of no more than $1,000 on the taxable property of a firm or individual is put in issue. The decision of the circuit court of the fourth judicial district was adverse to the validity of the act.

"OLIVER" AND "DICK."—A young man, who has never missed one of the balls in this city, has been initiated into the mysteries of the new dances, which are very popular in San Francisco. Prompters are dispensed with, and the novice "is at sea" in these dances until he finds that they are proceeded with in a manner stated. He proposes to study the thing thoroughly ere he attempts to "glide" or "dip" any more.

HAY CROP.—A gentleman writing from Astoria, says: "The harvesting of the hay crop has set things to buzzing pretty lively in this week. The hay crop is very light in this county this year, consequently prices rule 12½ per cent higher. I have heard some fears expressed that the late oats will scald before they head out, in which case they will not fill."

NATIVE LANGUAGE.—Hugh Brodigan, on complaint of Jas. Turk, was arrested on Tuesday evening, charged with using indecent and offensive language. The case came up in the police court yesterday morning and resulted in the defendant being fined $5, the same which he did not liquidate. Brodigan will put on prison fare for three days.

WEATHER REPORT.—From the records of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, for the day, July 21, 1875:

	7 A. M.	2 P. M.	9 P. M.
Barometer	29.8	29.80	29.82
Wind, direction	S	S.	NW.
Wind, velocity	10	7	8
Weather	Clear.	Clear.	Clear.
Maximum temperature			87

SLIGHT BREAK.—While the steamship John Stephens was outward bound last week, a slight accident occurred to the machinery, which detained her departure from Astoria a few hours. However the accident was of little consequence, and the steamer proceeded to sea in the afternoon of the same day.

OVERDUE.—The barks Rival and Sea Waif are now both due at this port from San Francisco. Both vessels bring large assorted cargoes. The Rival sailed for Portland on the 4th of July, and the Sea Waif on the 6th. Their arrival here may be expected at any time.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH THIS EVENING.—Public worship and preaching at a quarter before 8 in the vestry. Persons who have applied for admission to the communion of the church, and others intending to do so, are requested to be present.

CASE DECIDED.—At a late hour on Tuesday night, the colored jury in the case of Small vs. Thompson, which was tried before Justice Kelly, rendered a verdict. The jury awarded the plaintiff to the action the sum of $15.

OHIO—CHAMPION.—Both these boats arrived here last evening from the upper Willamette, bringing full cargoes. The Ohio came down Corvallis, and the Champion from Albany.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Merritt & Prang have fitted up the saloon formerly occupied by Matt. Keith. They keep the best in liquors and cigars.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Portland Wood Yard Company. They are prepared to receive orders. Note ad.

Drowning men will clutch at a straw, and those who are thirsty will grasp as eagerly at a straw, providing one end is in a glass of sherry cobbler.

In a few days the bark Garibaldi will commence to load with lumber for China. She will load at Smith Bros. mill in the upper end of the city.

Rev. Geo. Burton, of Portland, preached at St. Stephen's Mission, San Francisco, Sunday before last in the morning, and at St. Luke's, same city, in the evening.

When the Ajax crossed the bar a square rigged vessel was standing in, the name of which could not be made out. The vessel was supposed to be the bark Rival.

Dav. Walters, of the extensive carpet house of Walter Bros., will sail on the steamer. He will return in a few weeks with something new and attractive in carpetings, &c.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock, the Democratic county convention will convene at the court house, for the purpose of selecting nine delegates to attend the State convention.

Hydrant water without ice is pretty rough this weather, but then its the best that can be obtained. Some prefer whisky straight. There is no accounting for some people's tastes.

The appearance of a man on the streets yesterday who stands 6 feet 6, in his stockings, with a linen duster which came below his ankles, was the occasion of many remarks.

The schooners Lovet Peacock, Dreadnought, ship Roswell Sprague, and other coasters formerly in the Portland-San Francisco trade, are now sailing between the latter port and Puget Sound.

A delightful breeze came sweeping up from old Neptune's domains yesterday afternoon, and shook up quite lively the sluggish atmosphere about the city. Such a wind always blows good.

By a San Francisco exchange we see that Gen. Howard preached to a large and appreciative audience during his late visit to San Francisco. The general's sermon is reported to have been quite interesting.

FROM CASSIAR.

From the Colonist, of the 20th we take the following:

The steamer California arrived at Nanaimo about 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, bringing several sick miners for medical treatment, and a small mail. She also has on board the skeleton of a man believed to be that of the late Major Walker, who was lost on the Geo. S. Wright, and which was found on the beach at Bazon Bay by the U. S. revenue cutter O. Wolcott. The skeleton was identified by the coat and other clothing which were still upon it.

THE DIGGINGS.

The news from the diggings is not exciting. There had been another freshet, which had delayed mining, but the creeks were falling at latest dates, which are to July 7th. Three or four companies were making from $20 to $50 a day, but the bulk of the companies had not commenced washing. The Chinese had bought the Grant claim for $2,000. Provisions were very cheap at Dease creek. Lytton, of Clinton, who wintered on the Deloire and was afflicted with the scarvy, had arrived at Dease creek. The names of the dead men and other particulars will be found in our special correspondent's letter. In a claim on McDame creek as high as $50 a day to the hand was made. On Trout creek nuggets weighing 8½ oz. had been picked up. Mr. McClair, one of the miners referred to, reports that three men, working thirteen days on Thibert's claim on Thibert creek, took out $2,000. The passengers brought to Nanaimo by the California came on to Victoria by the Maude. Joseph Waterhouse, a packer, who is very ill, was taken in charge by the Odd Fellows and their wives, and tenderly cared for until the Maude reached Victoria.

LATER STILL.

A correspondent writing from Lake Town, Dease creek, under date of June 23d, says:

The road is in a passable condition as far as Cariboo camp, and between that and the lake is almost impassable.

Bill Moore is collecting toll in cash, and charging miners for their blankets and everything.

There is a lively opposition between Miller and Kane, boating on the lake.

The postal communications are very irregular, and great complaint is being made.

Flour is down to 25 cents, but at the present there is not a barrel to be had.

The famous Nellie Cashman was brought before Mr. Sullivan, charged with supplying intoxicating liquor to Indians, and was defended by Mr. T. Davie, and discharged.

The greater number of the party from the Deloire, who went down last fall, have returned, and the reports they give of the country are mixed, but on the whole not very unsatisfactory. Four of them died of the scarvy. Their names were Augustus Wartz, Jackson, Neil Hagan and Maxwell.

The creek claims are all laid over to the 24th, and the water is still very high. The wing-dams are about half gone.

Nery few of the claims on Dease and Thibert creeks are at work, on account of the high water. Those at work, on the average, are doing well; better than last season.

The hills of both creeks are very promising and prospect well.

The legal tender of the country is—jawbone straight. Provisions are very reasonable.

The general health is very good. The weather is pleasant. A good many buildings are going up.

In consequence of the great amount of credit given, the want of a county court is very much felt, and the traders feel that their only security is the fact that a supreme court judge will be here in the summer.

There is very little mining litigation at present.

Professions and trades of every kind are well represented. There are three doctors, two lawyers, seven or eight wholesale and retail dealers, two tinsmiths, one bootmaker, two barbers, one dozen or so whisky mills, one Chinese shop, two butchers, three bakers, three restaurants; in fact, everything except a preacher.

Provisions are getting to be cheaper gradually. Flour and beans are now sold at 25 cents per pound; bacon, 40 to 50 cents, potatoes, 25 to 30 cents; sugar, 40 to 45 cents;—but supplies are coming in very slowly, the trail being in an almost impassable condition, so that pack animals can travel on it with light loads only.

The number of horses and mules now packing on the trail reaches, I am informed, nearly 400, which will be more than sufficient to supply the 1,000 or 1,200 people supposed to be now in the mines. A further reduction in prices may therefore be safely expected.

Yesterday, some of the men who have been suffering with scurvy during the winter on the Deloire, arrived here in a boat, and bring the sad news of the death of four of their companions.

Out of a party of twenty-two all but three or four were attacked by scurvy, and between the 18th and 22d of April, four of them died. Those who escaped being sick and those who recovered, in all twelve, remained below, intending to prospect the Deloire and St. Francis rivers and their tributaries.

A BARK BURNING AT SEA.

TWENTY-SEVEN HOURS STARING "IN THE FACE WHAT SEEMED TO BE INEVITABLE DEATH.

From the New York Sun:

The crew of the British bark La Bonne Intention, who were brought to this port on Wednesday evening by the Cimbria, had a very narrow escape. On the thirty-third day out from Demerara fire was discovered in the hold. As the men endeavored to go down the fore scuttle dense smoke drove them back; consequently holes were cut in the deck, and water was liberally poured down. Capt. Sawtell ordered the boats to be got ready and sail to be taken in. While he and two men took in all sail to the lower topsails, second mate Gale with two men got the boats ready for launching, and mate Anderson with the rest of the crew worked hard to stay the fire. After working about five hours, it was found impossible to quench the fire, and as the open scuttle and the holes in the deck were only fanning the flames, the main-topmast topsail was cut down and lashed over the fore scuttle, and the holes made in the deck were covered with the men's beds and with old sails, all of which were kept constantly wet.

Only one alternative was left, and that was to take to the boats, of which there were only two, the long boat and the pinnace. The boat shad been got all ready to launch at any moment, but it was still thought advisable to stick to the ship as long as possible, although there was no possibility of saving her. The fire was still raging below, but had not yet broken through the decks. All day the men stuck to the ship, constantly pouring water on the sails over the scuttle and the mattresses. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon it was thought impossible to remain longer on the ship, and the boats were put over the rail ready to be launched at a moment's notice. They were lowered with two men in each, and were made fast by a hawser to the burning bark. Meanwhile the master, mate and second mate went forward to see whether anything could be done, but the dense smoke that came up from the fore scuttle and the deck holes, together with the intense heat of the deck, forced them back.

At 7 o'clock all hands got into the boats. The ship's rudder was lashed, and she towed the boats astern. About five minutes after taking to the boats, the continuous play of water having of course been stopped, the flames burst through the decks. The bonls were then cut loose and the long boat, in which were captain Sawtell, mate Anderson, and a passenger named McLaren and five men, hoisted sail, taking in tow the pinnace, which carried second mate Gale and five men. They kept in the wake of their burning bark, hoping that the flames might attract some passing vessel.

At 9.30 the foremast went over, and at about midnight the mizzenmast went, followed soon afterward by the mainmast. The ship was one mass of flame. About 3.30, in lat. 29, lon. 26 30, the lights of a steamer were sighted, and the boat-bore down for her. She proved to be the Cimbria, Capt. Brandt. Two of the men were so exhausted that they had to be hauled on board the steamship.

"SCULPED"

'Injuns, stranger—Injuns' Yes I know the whole gang of 'em from Red Cloud and Spotted Tail down to the toddling puppoose I ought to know 'em—I've fit 'em for nigh onto thirty years!'

He was a grim looking old man, with grizzly locks in view under his coon skin cap He had on a beat-skin coat, Indian moccasins, buckskin shirt and leggins, and he held a long rifle between his knees as we talked.

"These western railroads are rapidly civilizing the country—fast killing off Indians wolves, and buffaloes!"

He looked around the car, which was handsomely furnished and finished and sighed as he replied

'Yes, times are gittin' wuss an' wuss down this way I've been thinkin' of goin' up to the Yellowstone, whar a man can go out any time o' day and git up a squar fight with a grizzly, or raise a rumpus with the reds'

'You must be quite an old man'"

'Only 'bout sixty I aint quite so limber on a long run, an' can't sleep quite so well with the rain pouring jiddown into my face, but if I thought I wasn't good for any three Injuns on the plains or any grizzly that ever stood on legs, I'd ax ye to shoot me'"

"You must have seen wild times out here?"

"Purty wild—purty wild," mused the old man, "there used to be heaps o' reds out here, to say nothing of the wolves, bars and rattlesnakes, an' thar wuz times when death rose up to shake hands with me"

"Ever taken prisoner?"

"I mought hev been—I guess I was'" he said, as he uncovered his head

"Why, you've been scalped!"

"They called it sculping, stranger"

"And who did that?"

'This same blasted Red Cloud He didn't use the knife, but he stood by and hollered and encouraged the chap who did do it"

"Your sensations must have been terrible"

"There wasn't time to feel any sensations, stranger They sneaked it on me an' Tom as we dozed an' when I woke up Tom was riddled an' my scalp was hanging to an Injun's belt'"

"And what then?"

"Nothing much I got up and killed two, wounded another, and legged it up a canyon and got away If it was to do over again I'd git my topknot back or fight the whole Sioux nation till sumbody went under'"

He seemed lost in reflection for a moment, and then continued

"I don't know what sculps are worth in the market, but I guess I've got the full value of mine. I've knocked over risin' of thirty Sioux since that night, an' I guess I'd be willin' to pass receipts"

"I suppose you've had a turn at half a dozen different tribes?"

"Less see," he mused "That's the Sioux, Blackfeet, Pawnees, Arrapahoes, Shoshonees, Cheyennes, an' three or four other tribes They've all hunted me, an' I've hunted them, an' I can't say as they owe me anything"

"I notice a bad scar on your face?"

"I've got good scar for a common man, but I kin show ye the scalp-lock of the Pawnee who made it He jumped on to me just after I had swum a river, an' he thought he'd got hold of a jack-rabbit 'Twas a bad cut, an' it kind o' mazed me at fust, but when I did cum to, he was gone afore he could yell twice' I said it was a purty good scar, but it isn't quite ekal to this"

And he pushed up the legging on his right leg and exhibited a scar which made me draw back The foot, ankle, and the leg, as high as I could see, had been burned by fire.

"The Blackfeet had me fust to a stake once, ye observe," he explained "That was the time when they poked each other in the ribs an' said they had a dead-sure thing on old Carter, but they wuz mistaken They had me three days, and I'd bin kicked an' cuffed around until there wasn't any more fun in it, an' then they tied me to a stake an' lighted a fire around me 'Twas pretty clus, stranger—pretty clus'"

"And how did you escape?"

"Half a dozen of my old pards came along just in time to knock over half the band, and save me"

There was silence again while he unbuttoned his shirt and showed me a bosom literally grid ironed with scars

'Well, there may be two or three knife cuts thar," he explained, "but the heft o' them scars wuz made by a grizzly He wasn't one o' these b'ar fakes that sum folks knock over an' then blow about, but a reg'lar three story, old fashioned grizzly, such as ye don't find outside o' the darkest canyons in the Rockies I wuz bendin' over the fire when the varmint slid down a canyon an' wuz right on hand afore I had any warnin'"

"And was it a hard fight?"

"It wuz a purty fight, stranger, because it wuz a fa'r fight I had a big knife, an' he had teeth an' claws, an' we went in to kill He wuz good grit, but a leetle slow Thar wuz about thirty days after that little episode that my pard had to muss me like a child"

"And you mean to die out here?"

"That's for the Lord to say, but I 'spects yer more'n right The Injuns is purty quiet down here, an' these keers ar' bringin heaps o' people West, but I'm goin' up whar a white man won't disturb the Lord's work for a hundred years to cum' I feel kinder mean an' small down here—as if I wuz huntin' rabbits, but up the Yellowstone a feller kin brace up after he's knocked over a red or two an' feel as if he wasn't foolin away his young days'"

And that was old Carter

BIJAH REPROVED

"Bijah, were you brought up among heathens?" sharply inquired His Honor

The Court had cut a hole in a lemon, and was slowly sucking the juice while the clerk was getting the warrants ready. Bijah had been watching him for two or three minutes, licking his chops, and wearing a hungry expression

"I guess I was—I was born in New Jersey" responded the old janitor

This being His Honor's native State he laid the lemon on the desk, propped it from rolling off with his pen-holder, and remarked

'Mr Joy, you are getting old and sassy It grieves me to see it, but I realize that it is so You have got to turn over a new leaf, or the silken cord of friendship which has so long united us shall be severed'

"Is it any harm to see a feller suck a lemon?' exclaimed Bijah.

"Mr Joy this world is full of harm This very lemon, plump and fair as it appears to the eye, may cause my death within one hour You may now open court and call out the prisoners and I hope the words I have spoken may make a deep impression on your heart If you ever have a moment the funds will come from my wallet, and I shall not care to remember anything but your good deeds and your big fat Bring out the vicious and the unfortunate, and let the collision commence"—Detroit Free Press

The local money market remains very quiet and offers no special features for comment The disposition to an easy condition of financial matters has shown less increase during the few days just past and we note a slight inclination in the direction of greater closeness but not such as to materially affect trade interests The rather plentiful supply of funds offered in the market for the past two months has experienced no reduction as yet and the movement of the surplus grain crop will begin without any hindrance on that score The usual rates for loans and discounts are maintained and when the activity in trade which it is hoped will take place in the fall begins it would be a matter of no wonder should the money market stiffen up considerably

The Wheat Market.

While it is hardly probable that the recent excited condition of the breadstuffs market had any permanent producing cause there is but little doubt that affairs in this respect have taken an entirely new aspect within the past fortnight. The San Francisco Bulletin a commercial article admits that from the present stand point farmers are the masters of the situation The quantity of wheat they will have for sale to shippers is pretty well a certained The sacking for this grain is all here, and can be purchased nearly on their own terms The ships to take the crop are either here on the way or under engagement to come and the quantity of tonnage in sight is such as to justify the utmost confidence in low rates for transportation through out the season Already better prices are paid for wheat in this market than ruled for the most part, last season The differences in the conditions of the market now and one year ago are all one way, and that way is to the advantage of producers We will enumerate some of them In the first place, wheat is worth in San Francisco to day $2 00 against $1 60 a year ago secondly bags can be purchased at 10½c, against 14½c a year ago third ly ships can be secured for 40s against 80s at this date last year Here we have a profit of 43c in the decreased cost of sacking and the increased price of wheat here If the same difference be maintained throughout the year, farmers will get $1 500 000 more for the same quantity of wheat than they did in 1874-75 A still more marked saving is possible in the cost of transportation

The latest mail advices from the Eastern States and from Europe indicate sufficient to assure us that the demand for our surplus will be quite equal if anything more urgent than usual Russia which has been our great competitor in the English wheat markets seems likely to fall short of a full crop this year Advices from Odessa under date of June 16th 1875, state that the news from the interior in regard to the crops is much worse. There are complaints of drought in the interior in the provinces or governments of Poland and Bessarabia Polish, Odessa and red winter wheats were almost unobtainable at regular prices, owners preferring under the then existing circumstances in regard to the next crop to warehouse their wheat and speculate for the next season This gives a very great importance to the reports of unfavorable crop prospects. The Gherka wheat districts are more favorably reported of but in the district of Nicopol there had been serious complaints

The fine wheats from the Nicopol districts have been heretofore purchased at Odessa exclusively for the ports of the Mediterranean and, with the Polish and Bessarabian crops expected to be a failure in 1875 the countries bordering the Mediterranean will still take all the crop from the Nicopol district leaving Western Europe to seek supplies from other countries than Southeastern Europe In Northern France and Germany there is not the same bright prospect for the grain crops that there was last year

In the British Isles the prospects at the latest mail dates had been favorable for the cereal crops which were not so far advanced as these countries farther south

A London and Liverpool telegram of the 16th quotes as follows Floating cargoes strong; cargoes on passage active and higher, Mark Lane 1s 6d dearer No 2 spring off coast, 46s@48s 6d California off coast 49s California on passage, 49s No 2 spring for shipment, 46s@48s 6d English country markets generally 2s higher French country markets, 60c@1 franc dearer Liverpool firm California club 10s 1d@10s 5d California average 9s 10d@10s 3d red western spring 9s 9½d" A dispatch at a later hour in the same day says Wheat further advanced about 1s spot and to arrive At a still later hour the wire reported California wheat just shipped 51s nearly due 51s 6d To these "jumps" in the English market are in some degree to be attributed the recent flurry on this coast.

Our dispatches from New York and San Francisco received this evening show an active movement from the Atlantic seaboard in response to the European demand and a continued advance in California. There is no offering on this market at present and we do not hear of many offers to buy, but believe that under the exciting news one dollar a bushel might be realized quite readily. The Salem Mills we learn, have advanced the price at that place to ninety cents per bushel and as the local paper there quotes without sacks, this would be over $1 at this point reckoning sacking and transportation Everything indicates good prices

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The slight flurry which prevailed in our local market for a few days has apparently passed away but it has left higher rates than it found and there are but few who look for the low prices which prevailed at the beginning of the harvest last year There being no ships immediately at hand or under charter to load early in the season it is likely that matters will move slowly for awhile at least We may not look for any large receipts of the new crop for some weeks yet though the harvest has begun on a slight scale

FLOUR—The market shows no important change to day advices from San Francisco indicating some tendency to weakness in that market, our shippers slightly sympathize but our former quotations of $5 50 per bbl for leading brands are maintained.

OATS—Receipts have been light during the week so far and as the demand is not large the market is probably in no greater hole on the market until fully harvest shippers are paying 60c per bushel with a probability that jobbing houses might raise this figure to 70c.

BARLEY—We hear of no transactions to establish prices, and we quote nominally at $1 25 per cwt for common land $1 30@140 for choice

MILL FEED—There is still a tendency to a reduced demand We quote bran at $1 00@16 00 ₱ ton shorts $22@23 chops middlings etc $24 50@30, oil cake meal $30 with but little in market

HAY—A full supply in the market quotable at $10@11 ₱ ton for fair to best timothy loose, and $11 baled

POTATOES—The market is in fair supply at 75c@ $1 ₱ bushel

ONIONS—There are but few lots in the market quotable at 2c ₱ lb nominally

APPLES (DRIED)—There is a fair demand for fair lots either in sacks or kegs the latter preferred at 7@7½c ₱ lb Receipts are increasing

HIDES—Sides are held at our former quotations of 11@12c ₱ lb and are in full supply shoulders are unchanged from 8@9c while the market is over-stocked with hams and kips nominal for common lots at 10@12c ₱ lb though they must be a little extra to command the latter figure

LARD—Good Oregon made is worth 16c ₱ lb in kegs or tins and is in demand

BUTTER—We quote fair to choice roll at 20@25 ₱ lb extra fine for table use 40@45c common solid 15@20c

CHICKENS—The market is in liberal supply quotations for full grown $1 25@4 50 per dozen spring $2 50@3 75

EGGS—There was contrary to expectations a slight falling off in receipts to day and jobbing rates advanced again to 22½c per doz

BEEF CATTLE—Some very fine arrivals have been noticed during the week and the market is supplied with an excellent stock prices are $3 75@4 25 per cwt, net or $4 50@5 00 on foot

MUTTON SHEEP—The demand is light at 2½c per head

DRESSED HOGS—There is some enquiry for the local trade at 6½@6¾c ₱ lb

HIDES AND FURS—Prices for hides are still down, on account of the many damaged lots reaching the market Undamaged are quoted at 5 for dry beef hides 6c for green, calfskins 8@10c ₱ lb deer, 18@20c ₱ lb dried and 40@ 50c a piece green mink furs each 25@ 40c otter $1@3 beaver $5@8

WOOL—The arrivals of wool are now quite large and the next outgoing steamer for San Francisco will probably have all she can carry Therefore no changes from our quotations as of last week, viz for fair to fully wool and lambs for that from east of the mountains The course of the market is firm The shipments of wool from and to be from this and Puget Sound so far in the season is not equal to the large aggregate result in trade but the bulk of all kinds in San Francisco is but 1 500 000 out of 4 years production of 40 000 lbs The next crop is very little known as wool outgrowth, as the bulk of the clip is controlled by two or three parties who prefer to ship the same each for their own account
